

DANIEL B. PERKINS.

MARCH 5, 1840.

Read, and laid upon the table.

Mr. C. MORRIS, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT :

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of Daniel B. Perkins, report :

That this case appears to have been referred to them from the Committee of Claims. The petitioner asks relief, in consequence of sufferings and injuries received by him in attempting to suppress a fire that took place in 1819, in the buildings of the United States, at Springfield, Massachusetts.

There is ample testimony that the petitioner was so engaged ; that he had been a healthy man before this event ; that he suffered a severe spell of sickness immediately after ; and that he has enjoyed no sound or good health since. There is the evidence of but one physician in relation to the present condition of the petitioner, which is not full or satisfactory. He speaks only of general debility of his patient, and of his liability to be injuriously affected by the inclemency of the weather, and his inability to bear up under much bodily exertion.

The petitioner was not in the employment of the United States.

The physicians who first attended him are dead.

All the circumstances taken into consideration, the committee do not feel it their duty to grant relief.

Blair & Rives, printers.

DANIEL B. PERKINS.

MARCH 5, 1840.

Read, and laid upon the table.

Mr. C. MORRIS, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of Daniel B. Perkins, report:

That this case appears to have been referred to them from the Committee of Claims. The petitioner asks relief in consequence of sufferings and injuries received by him in attempting to suppress a fire that took place in 1819, in the buildings of the United States, at Springfield, Massachusetts. There is ample testimony that the petitioner was so engaged; that he had been a healthy man before this event; that he suffered a severe spell of sickness immediately after; and that he has enjoyed no sound or good health since. There is the evidence of but one physician in relation to the present condition of the petitioner, which is not full or satisfactory. He speaks only of general debility of his patient, and of his liability to be injuriously affected by the inclemency of the weather, and his inability to bear up under much bodily exertion.

The petitioner was not in the employment of the United States. The physicians who first attended him are dead.

All the circumstances taken into consideration, the committee do not feel it their duty to grant relief.

Blair & Rice, printers.